WELCOME TO FLAT ROCK, MINNESOTA

Where murder has made the playlist.

Sometimes the perfect shot requires patience, skill, and motive.

The grand opening of B-Sharp Vintage Records should be a time for celebration, but Tony DeLucca finds himself investigating another murder. This time, it's local banker Roland Townsend, who police say caught a stray round on the first day of deer season. Tony and Brenda aren't so sure.

Even the lead DNR conservation officer on the case thinks it was wrapped up too quickly, and Tony's investigator instincts kick in. What authorities are calling an accident might be murder, and the list of people who had grudges against the banker is longer than anyone wants to admit.

As Tony digs deeper into Flat Rock's secrets, he discovers that in a small town during hunting season, a well-placed bullet can look like bad luck...unless you know where to look.

Vinyl and Vengeance in small-town Minnesota.
